Dear Sir:

Please amend the above subject application in accordance with the accompanying claim amendment sheet. Claim 5 has been amended so as to be more clearly understood.

REMARKS

This is in response to the office action of March 29, 2005 for which a one month extension is concurrently filed with this response.

Claims 1-6 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. Sec. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Angott in view of Yamaguchi. Reconsideration of this rejection is respectfully requested in the light of the following argument.

Regarding claims 1-3, the examiner takes the position that Angott discloses each of the components mentioned in claim 1-3 with the exception of the voltage storing means for independently actuating the transmitter. The examiner then indicates that Yamaguchi in utilizing a voltage storage means can be used to incorporate this component into the Angott actuator system. To this, the applicant takes exception.
